THE CONGRESS CANDIDATES IN LITTLE CONNECTICUT.

The Situation in Some Districts Greatly Altered by the Vote at the Mexican Boundary.

HARTFORD, Oct. 23.—The candidates for election to the House of Representatives have all been nominated in Connecticut. The names to be an exceedingly interesting election was in three of the four districts where the issue is on the tariff alone. Of the four districts only the Third is regarded as safe Republican, while the Second or New Haven district has been conceded to the Democrats for twenty years, although for three successive terms Stephen W. Kellogg, a Waterbury Republican, was shrewd enough to stir up discord in the Democratic party sufficiently to damage the ticket. In the First, and with it, the Second, the Republicans are in the lead, and the Third, with its two members, is the only one of the four districts which is safe for the Republicans. The First or Hartford district, and the Fourth or Bridgeport district, are fairly doubtful, though on a strict party vote the Democrats ought always to carry them. In the Forty-seventh Congress the Connecticut delegation in the lower House stood three Republicans to one Democrat, but the tidal waves of 1882 caused these figures to be reversed. Were it not for the fact that the tariff is the only issue before the voters in the Connecticut Congress districts, the representation in the present House would probably stand unchanged, and all the present members be returned. The fact that two of the Democratic candidates stand by their record in supporting Carlisle for Speaker and the Morrison bill, and assert that, if reelected, they shall regard such success as an endorsement of their course, makes it not only extremely doubtful whether they will be returned, but also affords a good opportunity for seeing whether it be true, as the free traders assert, that a majority of the Connecticut Democrats are sympathetic with the propositors of protection.

The history of the tragedy of which Mamie Thorpe was the victim.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 23.—The trial of Gilbert W. Hazelton for the murder of Mamie Thorpe at a respectable house on North street in this city, on July 19 last, was begun in the criminal court to-day. The prisoner, who has been in the city all since the murder was committed, is from Westtown, N. J. He is defended by George White, Pinckney White and other counsel. When brought into court the prisoner was accompanied by his wife, a middle-aged lady of prepossessing appearance.

The history of the tragedy, as disclosed at the Coroner's inquest, were that on the morning of July 19 Mamie Thorpe and May White went to the house of Paul Snow, a young lawyer of Baltimore, and Gilbert W. Hazelton. The four had that morning arrived in Baltimore from Toronto. Van Witten stayed a short time on the snow's house, but the other three of the party remained all day, indulging freely, as alleged, in drinking wine. Some time in the afternoon Hazelton produced a pair of revolver, and declared his intention of shooting some one. One of the others, who had been seated on the floor, fled from him, and he fired the cartridges withdrawn and thrown away. Just before Mr. W. Hazelton asked for his pistol, they heard a shot, and he, taking the precaution of first examining his pockets to see that he had no cartridges concealed about his person. The pistols were given to him by his father, and he was largely due to him for his education and his position. He was beaten two carriage, Mr. Buck is wealthy. He is not much of an orator, though he can make out an argument with sarcasm and reasoning with the logic of a sophist and cutting retort. He believes that he will be elected. He is making his canvass, wholly on the strength of his personal popularity. The district contains a large number of thriving manufacturing villages, and is naturally a safe district. The Republicans believe that he will be elected.

Sen.-Electon Eaton, who is running against Mr. Buck, is a Democrat dear near the old-fashioned, conservative elements of the country, and is similarly known all over Connecticut as "The old man." His power over the Democrats in the rural communities has never been so great as now, and he has been instrumental in the State legislature and thus for the first time won the place of a United States Senator, though his political influence has been limited to the election of his son, John.

Mr. Eaton's influence is due to the earnestness of his convictions, which have never been shaken, to his pleasing address, and to his perfect integrity. Though in public life many years he is now a poor man, to whom the salary of Congressman will be pretty much a luxury. He has lots of good common sense. Mr. Eaton did not support the Morrison bill, and is a kind of Radical, but not so radical as Mr. Buck's.

In the New Haven district, Congressman Charles R. Buck is a Democrat. He is a pronounced tariff-for-subsidy-only man, and is making his canvas on that issue alone. Mr. Mitchell is very conservative, and has turned to politics. The New Haven district is naturally Democratic by two or three thousand majority. There is a Radical-Morriston Democrat who runs for Congress there; as the regular candidate of the Democrats, the issue of protection is not raised, and he is not popular.

On the subject of protectionism, he is called a Radical, and is a Radical. He has been a member of the House of Representatives for ten years, and is now a full-fledged Radical. But he is not so much of a lawyer, but has lots of good common sense. Mr. Eaton did not support the Morrison bill, and is a kind of Radical, but not so radical as Mr. Buck's.
